Equal Opportunity in University Policy-making

The University of Milan has long been committed to fostering a culture that is sensitive to gender issues, and has taken concrete action to safeguard the full breadth of the constitutional right to equal opportunity.

Amongst the University's objectives is the goal of creating an inclusive academic environment, one where diversity is celebrated, as established by Art. 8 of the University's Statute, which requires the University to ensure "that in every aspect of campus life, human rights, equal opportunity, and the principle of non-discrimination are championed".

In order to reach such an ambitious goal, the first step (in October 2018) was to appoint a Deputy Rector for Legality, Transparency and Equal Rights.

On the one hand, the appointment of that institutional figure demonstrates the University's recognition of the importance of equal rights within academia. On the other hand, the appointment alone does not discharge the University community's duty to take concrete steps towards equal rights, and to combat discrimination and gender-based violence in all forms.

The need to "build a network" against gender-based discrimination becomes clear when one looks to the recent institution of the "Network of Departmental Delegates for gender policies", tasked with overseeing the concrete implementation of the principle of equal opportunity across all departments.

The need to cultivate a safe environment for all sensibilities and talents on campus has also given rise to a series of working groups formed to generate a set of specific documents, amongst which we cite the Gender Budgeting document, the Gender Lexicon, and the Gender Equality Plan, presented below.

Before delving into the Gender Equality Plan, the two above-mentioned documents merit some discussion. Albeit distinct in form and focus, they offer a much-needed overview of the expanded role the principle of equal opportunity, and the policy of inclusion, have been given within the University's trajectory.

In November of 2020, the University of Milan established the 2019 Gender Budgeting, with the 2020 update issued in June of 2021, thereby equipping the University with a tool for both analysis and strategy-setting to work towards complete and substantive equal rights for men and women, and striving toward equal opportunities in the workplace, research, and the classroom, all with a view towards improving wellbeing on the job, and creating an inclusive work environment.

The Gender Budgeting document is certainly a feather in the University of Milan's cap: it is the first such document to be generated in Italy according to the Guidelines on gender issues established by CRUI (Conference of Italian University Rectors), of which the University of Milan is a member.

Another proud moment has been the more recent publication of the Gender Lexicon. The Lexicon aims to promote a more informed and more inclusive use of language, free of stereotypes and prejudices, driven by society's new-found awareness that language constitutes a vehicle for discrimination, and for forms of verbal violence.

These are just a few of the many initiatives undertaken by the University over the last few years. Coupled with these are operations in the arenas of academics, research, and third mission, for the purpose of pursuing inclusivity and gender equality, both on and off campus.

The Gender Equality Plan has been ushered in by this vibrant and engaged climate.

The Gender Equality Plan

Gender equality is a fundamental value for the European Union, and one of the UN's Sustainable Development Goals which, in addition to promoting economic development, contributes to overall wellness, and the creation of a more inclusive and more equitable Europe.

Recent progress and the many regulatory changes notwithstanding, gender-based distinctions persist in most of the Member States, albeit to varying degrees and effects within the different legal systems. Italy has been positioned fairly low on that list. As highlighted in the Gender Equality Index – GEI generated by the European Institute for Gender Equality, Italy ranks, with its 63.8% score, fourteenth out of the twenty-seven EU countries. Although that score reflects a 0.3% increase over 2018, Italy still falls 4.2% short of the EU average (68%).

To combat the persistent imbalance between men and women, and to bolster gender equality with the European organisations, the new Horizon Europe framework programme has introduced a set of criteria including, for all research institutions and higher education, the implementation of a Gender Equality Plan (GEP). That specific measure falls within the European Commission's (EC) policies as set forth in the document entitled “2020-2025 EU Strategies for Gender Equality”, intended to close the gap between the genders in European countries through target policy-making.

Today, the Gender Equality Plan is the principal tool utilised by the European Commission to drive institutional change by identifying strategies for talent development, governance, allocation of research funding, leadership, decision-making, and research.

As both a strategic and operational tool intended to bring about gender mainstreaming, the University of Milan's Gender Equality Plan will work in concert with the University's Gender Budgeting, and the Positive Action Plan.

To institute the process to plan, generate, and implement the GEP, a Work Group made up of persons with specific expertise in gender issues was formed. The Work Group then liaised with University governance and other University departments. The “workshopping” of the GEP made the process more collaborative, so that obstacles and objections could be overcome at each successive phase of the process.

The document is based on the guidelines established by the European Commission, on the advice provided by the European Institute for Gender Equality (EIGE) to identify and implement innovative strategies for sparking cultural change, and fostering equal opportunities in higher education and research, as well as on the “Handbook for Writing a GEP”, generated by the CRUI 2021 Commission on Gender Issues' GEP Work Group.

The document is made up of a series of informational sheets on the objectives for six “Key Areas”. Each sheet identifies the actions, direct and indirect targets, institutional and operational point persons, assigned personnel and allocated funding, outputs, outcomes, timeframes, and assessment criteria. Additionally, each action item notes its relevance to the UN's Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) on the UN's 2030 Agenda.

The GEP was shared with the Equal Opportunity Committee (CUG) at the time the objectives and joint action items were being discussed and delineated.

AREA 1

WORK-LIFE BALANCE AND UNIVERSITY CULTURE

1.1. Encouraging inclusive, non-discriminatory administrative language which respects gender identity

Action	Training for Technical, administrative & library staff (PTAB)
Direct target	Technical, administrative & library staff (PTAB)
Indirect target	Academic community
Institutional point persons	Deputy Rector for Legality, Transparency and Equal Rights; Managing Director; Equal Opportunity Committee
Operational point persons	Organisational Development and HR Division (Professional Development and Well-Being Sector - Continuing Education and Professional Development Office)
HR	Continuing Education Office staff; teaching staff engaged in continuing education and professional development
Funding	5,000
Output	Production of a training programme for all University technical, administrative & library staff
Outcome	Combatting language-based gender stereotypes
Timing	2022
Assessment indicators	Course to be offered by the end of 2022
	5.1. Ending discrimination against women and girls in all forms, everywhere
	10.2. By 2030, the social, economic, and political inclusion of all persons, regardless of age, sex, disability status, race, ethnic background, national origin, religion, socio-economic status, etc., will be strengthened

1.2. Promoting work-life balance by providing subsidies for children's education, and to cover the expenses to care for elderly or disabled family members

Action	Improving subsidy programmes for all technical, administrative & library staff; academic and research staff; non-employed staff
Direct target	Technical, administrative & library staff; academic and research staff, research fellowships, PhD students and postgraduate students
Indirect target	Nuclear family of the person involved
Institutional point persons	Rector; Managing Director; Equal Opportunity Committee
Operational point persons	Organisational Development and HR Division (Professional Development and Well-Being Sector - Office for Welfare, Equal Opportunity and Trade-Union Relations)
HR	Office for Welfare, Equal Opportunity and Trade-Union Relations staff
Funding	Use of allotted funds: Euro 2,300,000
Output	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> 0 Updating the method of disbursement following the annual application-procedure review process 0 Monitoring 0 Posting of an annual report to the University's website
Outcome	Improving University subsidies and cultivating better work-life balance
Timing	2024
Assessment indicators	Annual monitoring
	5.4. Recognising and valuing unpaid domestic labour and child care, providing public services, infrastructure and policies for social welfare, and encouraging shared responsibilities within families in a culturally relative manner 5.5. Ensuring complete, substantive participation of women in public life, and equal opportunities in leadership and at all decision-making levels in the political and economic arenas

1.3. Fostering work-life balance through subsidies and discounts to access community-based services

Action	Reviewing and proposing options for tuition reimbursement for summer camps and academic programmes for the children of University personnel
Direct target	Technical, administrative & library staff, academic and research staff, research fellowships, PhD students, postgraduate students
Indirect target	Nuclear family of the person involved
Institutional point persons	Managing Director
Operational point persons	Organisational Development and HR Division (Professional Development and Well-Being Sector - Employee Benefits Agreements Office)
HR	Employee Benefits Agreements Office staff
Funding	Commitment in terms of months/person for staff involved
Output	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Launching and gradually expanding the options - Publication of a yearly scorecard
Outcome	Improving University subsidies and fostering a work-life balance, including through “zero-cost” initiatives such as encouraging participation in community-based programmes
Timing	2024
Assessment indicators	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Increasing offerings by 50% over the 2022-2024 period - Annual monitoring by 31 December of each year

Ensuring complete, substantive participation of women in public life, and equal opportunities in leadership and at all decision-making levels in the political and economic arenas

1.4. Fostering a work-life balance and organisational wellbeing by reviewing and implementing smart-working conditions

Action	Top-down implementation of smart-working options, University-wide
Direct target	Technical, administrative & library staff
Indirect target	Nuclear family of the person involved
Institutional point persons	Managing Director
Operational point persons	Organisational Development and HR Division (Professional Development and Well-Being Sector - Office for Welfare, Equal Opportunity and Trade-Union Relations)
HR	Office for Welfare, Equal Opportunity and Trade-Union Relations staff
Funding	Commitment in terms of months/person for staff involved
Output	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> 0 Top-down implementation of a basic smart-work option, available University wide, with no restrictions on participation, by soliciting individualised work plans (PILAs) over the course of 2022 0 Monitoring: data collection and analysis on participation, and on the content of the PILAs submitted in 2021, in order to ensure ongoing improvement for the programme
Outcome	Fostering a work-life balance across-the-board within the University community through the use of smart-work options
Timing	2024
Assessment indicators	Generating and approving the smart work operational plan (POLA) no later than 31 January of each year
	5.4. Recognising and valuing unpaid domestic labour and child care, providing public services, infrastructure and policies for social welfare, and encouraging shared responsibilities within families in a culturally relative manner 5.5. Ensuring complete, substantive participation of women in public life, and equal opportunities in leadership and at all decision-making levels in the political and economic arenas

1.5. Fostering equal opportunities within the University culture, and in institutional processes and practice

Action	Collection and analysis (on a department level, as well) of quantitative and qualitative data broken down by gender, to create the Gender Budgeting document each year
Direct target	Key players and political decision-makers
Indirect target	Academic and research staff, technical, administrative & library staff; students
Institutional point persons	Deputy Rectors; Managing Director; Equal Opportunity Committee; Unit Directors; Department Heads
Operational point persons	ICT Division (Data Analysis Office); Network of departmental delegates for gender policies; Gender Equality Advisor
HR	University personnel
Funding	Commitment in terms of months/person for staff involved
Output	Disaggregated data analysis
Outcome	Strategic gender policies geared towards equity and personal wellbeing
Timeline	2022-2023-2024
Assessment indicators	Gender Budgeting
	5.1. Ending discrimination against women and girls in all forms, everywhere 5.b. Increased usage of enabling technologies, especially information and communication technologies, to promote female emancipation

AREA 2 REPRESENTATION OF ALL GENDERS IN LEADERSHIP AND DECISION-MAKING BODIES

2.1 Improve decision-making within the University to develop greater gender equality (greater female representation in leadership and management)

Action	Reviewing and introducing, as needed, anti-discrimination measures in University regulations, on both a central and decentralised basis
Direct target	Academic and research staff, technical, administrative & library staff
Institutional point persons	Rector; Deputy Rector for Legality, Transparency and Equal Rights; Managing Director
Operational point persons	Legal Affairs and Employee Competitive Hiring Division; Institutional Affairs Division
HR	Divisions staff
Funding	Commitment in terms of months/person for staff involved
Output	Report setting forth the representation of genders on personnel-recruitment panels
Outcome	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> 0 Improved decision-making processes within the University to increase gender equality 0 Raised awareness of the gender dimension of decision-making processes
Timeline	By 2022
Assessment indicators	Detailed report by December 2022
