TRAINING OR RESEARCH ACTIVITY

description of activity

The CC-NLP project is part of the Cambridge Cybercrime Centre. We are designing and developing NLP tools and a web application to enable interdisciplinary researchers to analyse our CrimeBB dataset, which contains hundreds of millions of posts scraped from 33 cybercrime forums.

Aspect Based Sentiment Analysis (ABSA) is the automated analysis of sentiments expressed by various reviewers towards different products and their aspects. This is required for decision making by businesses and organisations. This project developed and evaluated supervised learning techniques for the various subtasks of ABSA, viz. aspect classification and sentiment classification.
