Read the destination details carefully. They will help you identify key elements such as the duration (which cannot be changed), the number of places available, the subject area (ISCED code) based on the Bilateral Agreement that was signed, and any relevant notes.

For semester-long destinations, you should select the mobility's semester (first or second). This choice is free, but it needs to be taken consciously, depending on personal needs, on the period in which the courses of your interest are offered and on other possible academic necessities. In case of departures during the first year of Master's studies, you are advised to choose the second semester, as you must be enrolled to the academic year of the academic year of the Call for applications to be able to leave. If you need to apply for a Visa, you are also invited to choose the second semester. Only in exceptional cases will it be possible to change this choice after your selection.

It is necessary to confirm through "Add destination" the data entered. Repeat the steps mentioned above for each new destination you want to add.

- Check the summary of selected destinations and click on "next". Attention: by deleting one or more destinations, you will change the preference order.
