To each of our clients, therefore to you who already have a contractual relationship with us, who are about to establish one or who ask us to carry out an occasional transaction.

This notice is also addressed to all those who, in various capacities, have connections with our customers or their guarantors (e.g. legal representatives, directors, shareholders, beneficial owners, attorneys, delegates or signatories).

Finally, this notice is addressed to those whose data have been provided to us by other parties at the pre-contractual stages or in the performance of a contract.

Its content may concern you as a natural person, sole proprietor or freelancer.

3. WHAT IS DATA PROCESSING? WHO IS THE DATA CONTROLLER?

The GDPR defines "personal data" as "any information relating to an identified or identifiable natural person".

The GDPR also defines precisely what is meant by "processing", namely "any operation or set of operations which is performed upon personal data or sets of personal data, whether or not by automated means, such as collection, recording, organisation structuring, storage, adaptation or alteration, retrieval, consultation, use, disclosure by transmission, dissemination or otherwise making available, alignment or combination, restriction, erasure or destruction".

As the "Data Controller", Intesa Sanpaolo, acting in full compliance with the principles of fairness, lawfulness and transparency, determines the means and purposes of each of these "operations" that involve, even only potentially, your personal data; it does all this while ensuring your confidentiality and fully protecting your rights.

4. WHAT PERSONAL DATA DO WE PROCESS?

The personal data we process and protect belong to the following categories:

- a. identification and personal data, such as your name and surname, business name, tax code, VAT number, date and place of birth, address of residence/domicile, tax domicile, correspondence address, gender, nationality and data relating to identification documents;
- b. image data, such as a photograph on an identification document;
- c. contact details, such as landline and mobile phone numbers, ordinary and certified e-mail addresses;
- d. data on personal and family situation, such as marital status and household composition;
- e. financial data: economic, capital and credit data;
- f. data relating to the relationships you have with us, such as transaction data, your reference branch, your classification according to the European MIFID Directive and your credit rating;
- g. data belonging to "special" categories, e.g. biometric data and health data. These are data that were previously defined as "sensitive" and require "special" protection and specific consent;
- h. judicial data relating to criminal convictions and offences or security measures.

5. WHY ARE WE ASKING YOU TO PROVIDE US WITH YOUR DATA?

We need your data to prepare, conclude and properly perform contracts and to fulfil the relevant legal obligations.

If you decide not to provide us with your data, we will be unable to provide you with our services.

6. FROM WHOM DO WE COLLECT YOUR DATA? HOW DO WE PROCESS THEM?

The data we process may originate:

Directly: if you communicated them to us on the occasions when you interacted with us;

Indirectly: if we have collected them from third parties or from sources accessible to the public (e.g. the Chamber of Commerce and Professional Registers), in compliance with the relevant regulations.

We take care of your data in any case: we process them using manual, computerised and telematic tools – including artificial intelligence systems, as defined by current regulations – and we guarantee their security and confidentiality.

In some cases, we may also process your data by means of profiling techniques, in compliance with the principles of the GDPR. In particular, if profiling activities are aimed at fulfilling legal obligations, we adhere to the criteria set forth by the respective regulations.

If profiling takes place as part of a fully automated decision-making process, you will be provided with specific information and, if necessary, we will request your explicit consent in compliance with the provisions of article 22 of the GDPR "Automated individual decision-making, including profiling".

We may also carry out classification or, where necessary, profiling activities based on legitimate interest pursuant to art. 6, paragraph 1, letter f) of the GDPR for purposes preparatory to the execution of corporate or strategic transactions, such as mergers, demergers, transfers of business units, credits or legal relationships, as specified in Annex 1 "Legitimate interests".

The methodology and logic of the profiling performed for fraud prevention and IT security monitoring are described in the annex "Profiling for anti-fraud purposes and IT security monitoring", also available in the "Privacy" section of the www.intesasnpaolo.com website.

7. WHAT IS THE BASIS FOR OUR PROCESSING? FOR WHAT PURPOSES DO WE PROCESS YOUR DATA?

The processing of personal data is only lawful if its purpose is supported by a valid legal basis, i.e. one of those provided for in the GDPR.

In accordance with the various legal bases provided, we will briefly explain the processing we carry out and the purposes we pursue.

THE LEGAL BASIS	OUR PURPOSES
a) Consent (Art. 6.1(a) of the GDPR and Art. 9.2(a) of the GDPR) ----- These types of processing are only possible if you have given your consent for the specific purpose. You always have the right to withdraw all or part of the consents given.	We carry out direct and indirect marketing and profiling activities, and in particular: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> we perform activities functional to the promotion and sale of products and services of companies belonging to the Intesa Sanpaolo Group or of third party companies and conduct customer satisfaction surveys both through the use of automated systems for calling or communicating a call without the intervention of an operator and electronic communications (e-mail, SMS, MMS or other), and also through the use of paper mail and telephone calls through an operator; by processing your information (e.g. current account transactions, changes in your financial situation, location and movements) and the identification of categories (clusters) we assess and predict aspects concerning, among other things, interests, preferences, consumer choices and habits, in order to offer you more personalised and appropriate products and services. We process data belonging to "special" categories only if strictly necessary for specific purposes, for example for the provision of services and products in the context of social impact and welfare initiatives.
b) Contract and pre-contractual measures (Art. 6.1(b) of the GDPR)	We provide the services requested and perform the contracts or deeds relating to the pre-contractual phases.
c) Legal obligation (Art. 6.1(c) of the GDPR)	We comply with regulatory requirements, for example in the field of taxation and anti-money laundering, anti-corruption and fraud prevention in payment services. We comply with Authority provisions, for example in relation to monitoring of operational and credit risks at banking group level. In particular, if regulatory requirements involve profiling activities, we adhere to the criteria set forth by the respective law provisions.
d) Legitimate interest (Art. 6.1(f) of the GDPR)	We pursue the legitimate interests of ourselves or of third parties, which are shown to be lawful, concrete and specific, after having ascertained that this does not compromise your fundamental rights and freedoms. These include, for example, physical security, security of IT systems and networks, prevention of fraud, the carrying out of corporate or strategic operations and the production of statistics. In some specific cases, the processing may involve profiling activities (see annex "Legitimate interests" and "Profiling for anti-fraud purposes and IT security monitoring"). The complete list of the legitimate interests that we pursue is described in the annex "Legitimate interests".

8. HOW DO WE PROCESS YOUR DATA TO ASSESS CREDIT RISK?

European regulations require us to assess and update credit risk, in order to ensure the Intesa Sanpaolo Group's financial stability and capital adequacy. We therefore process your data using profiling techniques that enable us to assess and maintain your "financial" health status up to date by calculating the maximum repayment instalment you can afford (affordability and sensitivity) and a risk score (a rating) based on the information we have as well as on your transactions and on possible overdrafts on current accounts you have opened with our Group and, if you authorise us, also on accounts you hold with other banks. The assessment system also uses data that you already provide us with other documents, such as tax returns or financial statements. The indicators calculated in this way will be taken into account, along with other information and parameters, also to:

- provide you with an informed reply when you ask us for a loan, credit line or a credit card;
- assess your reliability and timeliness in making payments, if you have taken out a loan.

The methodology and logic of these processing activities are described in the annex "Profiled credit risk assessment", which is also available in the "Privacy" section of the website www.intesasampaolo.com.

9. WHO MIGHT RECEIVE THE DATA YOU PROVIDED?

We may disclose your data to other parties, both within and outside the European Union, but only for the specific purposes indicated in the notice according to the legal bases provided by the GDPR.

ANNEX 2 - PROFILED CREDIT RISK ASSESSMENT

European regulations on prudential supervision require banks to assess credit risk internally and to keep this assessment constantly up-to-date in order to ensure their financial stability and capital adequacy including at Banking Group level.²

To measure credit risk internally, we have developed models that are also based on an analysis of current account movements over a 12-month period.

In particular, we analyse the data that you have provided us with directly or that can be obtained from tax returns, financial statements and any further documentation that may be asked for.

We also use movements on current accounts on the basis of the data obtainable from accounts, including joint accounts, that you hold with us, with Group Banks and, if you have consented, also with other banks not belonging to the Group.³

Analysis of this information allows us a more effective assessment of credit risk which we represent with synthetic indicators (such as, for example, the so-called rating, affordability, sensitivity), whose values are divided into classes.

The personal data used for profiling are specifically processed to pursue the following aims:

- to guide you in the choice of the solution best suited to your needs, in compliance with the EBA Guidelines on the granting and monitoring of credit;
- to assess your creditworthiness should you apply for credit. The processing of your personal data is necessary in order to respond to your request;
- to allow us to periodically update ratings and to constantly monitor credit risks, including at Group level, on customers granted credit and on those holding a current account for more than three months (in the latter case, we monitor the potential credit risk deriving from possible account overdrafts). The processing of your personal data is mandatory as it is required by law and does not require your consent;
- with regard to the processing of data from information systems operated by private entities on consumer credit, reliability and timeliness of payments (so-called CIS – Credit Information System), to pursue our legitimate interest in the proper measurement of credit risk and the correct assessment of reliability and timeliness of payments. The processing of your personal data does not compromise your fundamental rights and freedoms and does not require your consent.

If the data in our possession, including those held at other Group Banks, are not sufficient, you may be asked for additional personal data; it is understood that you will be free to choose whether or not to disclose data relating to accounts held with other banks.

²The subject is regulated mainly by Regulation (EU) no. 575/2013 ("Capital Requirements Regulation" - CRR), by Directive 2013/36/EU of 26 June 2013 ("Capital Requirements Directive" - CRD IV), by the guidelines adopted by the European Commission, by the European Banking Authority, and by the related implementing rules also issued by the Bank of Italy.

³The data taken from the accounts you hold with banks outside the Group are those that you have provided to us by delivering your account statements, or by using our account information service. This service is a function of a remote service (My Key for individuals and My Key Business) that enables customers to use an electronic link to acquire information on balances and movements relating to payment accounts, accessible online, that a customer holds with other banks or payment service providers. "Online accessible payment accounts" are the accounts (e.g. current accounts) that a customer can access using a bank's or the payment service provider's internet/mobile banking service where the accounts are opened.

As for the profiling carried out for the aforementioned credit risk assessment, we use a model that processes and supplements information from various sources through the use of statistical techniques and credit technology best practices.

In this process, in observance of the rules for granting and managing credit, we use statistical algorithms that enable credit risk to be assessed and predicted with a high degree of accuracy.

The personal data processed are those strictly necessary to ensure the accuracy of the credit assessment, the effectiveness of the algorithms used and their reliability over time.

To ensure the fairness and proper use of the process employed, we also subject the calculation methods we use to regular checks, both internal and external, so that they remain appropriate, effective and non-discriminatory over time.

To achieve this, we have defined appropriate safeguards to ensure compliance with regulatory requirements over time, as well as the proper functioning of the statistical models and the related calculation logic. We carry out periodic updates of the time series data used for the estimation of the models, regular checks to ensure the accuracy of the data processed and regular checks on the functioning of the algorithms used and the results achieved.

ANNEX 3 - PROFILING FOR ANTI-FRAUD PURPOSES AND IT SECURITY MONITORING

For the purposes of preventing and combating fraud, identity theft, and for the security of IT systems, the Bank may collect client behavioural data and carry out profiling activities to identify suspicious or anomalous activities. Personal data are collected through various channels and may also concern registration for banking services, their use and transactional activity.

The personal data used for profiling are specifically processed to pursue the following purposes:

- identification of fraudulent activities to the detriment of the Bank and clients;
- development of predictive models to anticipate potential fraud. These models are built using machine learning techniques and advanced data analysis, based on historical data series of fraud and legitimate transaction data;
- identification of new threats and development of effective defence strategies to strengthen security measures.

We pursue these purposes by monitoring and analysing client transactions in order to identify anomalous or particularly inconsistent behaviour with respect to the client's profile and habits (such as, for instance, the repeated use of a credit card in a short period of time in different locations).

The anti-fraud software used is able to create individual risk profiles based on the behavioural and transactional data of individual clients. These profiles are then used to:

- assess the risk of fraud, including potential identity theft, on the basis of the client's profile;
- customise security measures, implementing specific security controls for each client, based on his or her financial habits.

In case of detection of suspicious activity, automated systems may generate alerts, which are sent to the Bank's security teams for further checks to detect any fraudulent transactions. In some cases, immediate security measures may be activated, such requesting further confirmations from the client (by means of codes, security questions and, where applicable, identification through the use of biometric data) before proceeding with the execution of the transaction. In higher-risk cases, a temporary suspension of the client's transactions may occur.

The Bank's anti-fraud and IT team intervenes in each case to analyse the reports generated by automated systems, carrying out in-depth investigations to understand the causes of the anomalies detected and to verify the legitimacy of the suspicious transactions.

With regard to profiling carried out for anti-fraud and IT security purposes, we make use of automated systems that analyse data in real-time to monitor client transactions and identify anomalies and fraudulent activities. These systems include behavioural analysis software, machine learning algorithms and artificial intelligence systems.

The personal data processed are those strictly necessary to ensure the accuracy of the analyses, the effectiveness of the systems used and their reliability over time.

To ensure the fairness and correctness of the process employed, we also subject the anti-fraud systems we use to regular checks, so that they remain accurate, effective and non-discriminatory over time.

To this end, we have set up appropriate measures to ensure the proper functioning of the software over time, carrying out periodic updates of the historical series used to build the models, regular checks to ensure the correctness of the data processed, and regular checks on the functioning of the systems used and the quality of the results obtained.
